Since its opening, SentryWorld has received a lot of attention and visits from top golfers and celebrities. Here's a look at some of the more notable names:

- Andy North, a two-time U.S. Open winner from Madison, Wisconsin, attends SentryWorld's grand opening in 1982.
- Arnold Palmer warms up before the 1985 Sentry Challenge Cup. Arnold and his partners, Betsy King and Dave Marr, went on to win the event.
- Bob Toski admires his shot at the 1985 Sentry Challenge Cup. Toski was the leading money winner on the PGA TOUR in 1954, and is the first living instructor inducted into the World Golf Teachers Hall of Fame.
- Three-time major champion Jan Stephenson watches her shot on the Flower Hole at the 1985 Sentry Challenge.
- LPGA pioneer and hall of famer Patty Berg visited SentryWorld in 1985. Pictured with Patty are Stevens Point Country Club pro Doug Bisbee, SentryWorld pro Bob Reith, and Sentry CEO John Joanis.
- 1973 Masters winner Tommy Aaron watches his putt at the 1987 Sentry Challenge Cup.
- 1958 PGA Championship winner Dow Finsterwald watches his drive at the 11th hole at the 1987 Sentry Challenge Cup.
- 1967 British Open champion Roberto De Vincenzo watches his drive at the third hole at the 1987 Sentry Challenge Cup.
- 1963 British Open champion Bob Charles watches as his sand shot on hole 15 lands on the green. For many years, Bob was the only left-handed golfer to win a major.
- 1969 U.S. Open winner Orville Moody splashes his ball from the bunker on hole 5 at the Sentry Challenge Cup.
- Gary Player shows off his skill in the sand at hole 18. Gary said after the round that "we don't play greens any better than these on tour."
- LPGA player and teaching pro Suzy Whaley gives a clinic to players at the WPGA Junior Women tournament in 2009. Suzy is currently the PGA of America secretary and will likely be the president in 2020.
- PGA TOUR star Steve Stricker visited SentryWorld to play and present a clinic to the junior program in 1996. Steve also won the 1983 Wisconsin state high school tournament at SentryWorld. (2 photos)
- Green Bay Packer great Brett Favre poses with wide receiver Don Beebe, SentryWorld head pro Brian Dumler, and assistant pro Brian Steinke. Brett was a regular at SentryWorld in 1997, the year of his third straight MVP and mentioned on his TV show that SentryWorld is one of his favorite courses.
- Green Bay Packer great Bart Starr enjoys a round at SentryWorld.
- Willie Nelson pays a visit and plays a round in 1995.
